Last year Wood's Business College, of Scranton, had an application for a clerk, book-keeper or stenographer for every day in the year.

G. A Potter, editor of the Millville Tablet, gave us a call Thursday morning. He says that at the late borough election the Baker Ballot system of voting was a success. They have voted about 40 an hour in their township.

The grangers of this county are urging R. G. F. Kshinki of Briarcreek township to be a candidate for the Legislature. If he is a candidate, he would draw a large vote among the grangers.

Mrs. Mary A. Brobst, wife of John Brobst, died last Tuesday at her home on Rock street, aged 56 years. A husband and four children survive her. The funeral took place this Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

C. M. Blaker announces his name this week as a candidate for the Legislature. The Gen. says that he has entered the fight this year with a determination to win, and will use every honorable means to accomplish that purpose.

The man who called sarsaparilla a fraud, had good reason; for he got hold of a worthless mixture at "reduced rates." He changed his opinion, however, when he began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It pays to be careful, when buying medicines.

Treasurer Kline and Register and Recorder Campbell went out trout fishing last week. Mr. Kline caught two large trout at one throw—he had some difficulty in landing them, but there being a sandy shore near he succeeded. The two weighed about four pounds.

The D. L. & W. depot in Scranton is being enlarged. Two stories are to be added to the part now used as a dining room. It is said that the company's mileage department is to be removed from New York to that city and will be located over the dining room. This gives employment to over fifty clerks.

The ejectment cases which have been on the list since 1885 are set down for trial next week. The city of Philadelphia, trustee under the will of Stephen Girard, is plaintiff. Among the counsel who are expected to take part are Ex-Judge F. Carroll Brewster, Congressman Wolverton, Geo. F. Baer, Samuel Kaercher, and John W. Ryon.

Geo. S. Robbins visited the factory of the Globe Manufacturing Company, of Northville, Michigan, last week and made a contract for the furniture at the Parish House. It will be delivered here about June 1. Mrs. James Barton, the liberal donor of the furniture, has placed in Mr. Robbins' hands the cash to pay for it, upon its arrival. There are 234 chairs, a reading desk, platform chairs, and table.

Daniel Morris, the veteran landlord and horseman, of Locust township, came over on Monday and spent several days in town. He tells a good story of his experience during the war. He belonged to a militia company organized under the laws as they existed in anti-bellum days. They were well drilled, finely uniformed, looked as brave as lions when on parade. Dan says that if the rebels had not fired on Fort Sumter on that eventful day in April 1861, the company might have been in existence yet, but just as soon as the news came that there was a war on hand the company disbanded, and you couldn't find a man who had ever belonged to it. Dan says he holds a grudge against the rebels yet for "busting up the company."

Have you tried Rishton's Soda today?

The cool weather has not been very favorable to vegetation, but the leaves and blossoms on the trees are appearing slowly and give evidence of a large crop of fruit.

Trout are said to be more plentiful in the streams this spring than usual and the same may be said of the fisherman. Some have made good catches and others again have had fishermans luck. Aiter a thorough study of Isaac Walton's "Complete Angler" we may be able with a little practice to tell you some true fish stories: if any such stories exist nowadays.

The Aurora Borealis have been of almost nightly occurrences, for some weeks past and have presented some very brilliant illuminations. It has often been noticed that these phenomena were followed by cold weather. Whether they have any more to do with the weather than the moon has with the growth of potatoes is more than the writer can tell, but the fact that we have been having some pretty cold nights has been supporting the theory this time.

Miss Ida Cole is attending the select school at Benton.

Messrs. E. Hess and A. Hirleman, are frequent visitors to this town on Sundays. Perhaps the Sunday attraction is largely due to the church goers.

Mr. Clemens' barn was burned on Monday night together with all the contents including two horses, five head of cattle, a mower and other farm machinery. It is thought to have been the work of an incendiary.

MILLVILLE.

The music of the lawn mower is heard in the land.

Chas. Eckman has opened up his Ice Cream parlors near the depot and his customers are plenty, as he makes a very desirable quality of cream.

In point of interest the Borough election on last Tuesday was equal or nearly so to a presidential election.

Mary Piatt of Joiliet, Ill., is visiting her many friends and relatives at this place.

Josiah Heacock is making preparations for building a large double house for dwelling purposes on Main street.

Pliny Eves was the first man in Col. Co. to deposit his vote under the Baker ballot law.

Clark, F. P. Billmeyer, and A. Z. Schoch. Two trustees are to be appointed on the part of the state, and the names of I. S. Kuhn, J. A. Funston, I. W. Willits and P. S. DR. A. L. TURNER.

The remains of Dr. A. L. Turner were brought to Bloomsburg on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, on the P. & R. train, and were taken to the Presbyterian Church, were services were conducted by Rev. I. M. Patterson, assisted by Rev. Mr. Ferguson. The burial took place in the family lot in Rosemont.

He was born in Connecticut and received a thorough medical education. Before coming to Bloomsburg, he was superintendent of the Onondago Insane Asylum in New York. When he first came to Bloomsburg he came on a visit, and he was so much pleased that he moved here, and began the practice of medicine. He was an exceptional man in many respects, and was said to be especially quick and accurate in diagnosis He established the Sanitarum and his patients came from nearly every state in the union.

Dr. Turner was 57 years old. He died in Philadelphia, where he had resided since last fall. The cause of his death was paralysis, the last stroke being the third. He had made arrangements to move to Bloomsburg to spend the balance of his days, and had rented Dr. Schuyler's house, and would have taken possession on May 2nd, but the final call came before he could carry out his plans. Dr. Turner moved from Bloomsburg nearly nine years ago, to New York. For a number of years he conducted the Sanitarium successfully, and acquired a wide reputation as a specialist in epileptic cases. In the practice of medicine and real estate deals he accumulated a considerable fortune. His first wife died before he left Bloomsburg. His second wife survives him. He was an ardent and active member of the Presbyterian Church, and many warm friends mourn his loss.

THE BISHOP'S VISIT.

Rt. Rev. N. S. Rulison D. D. Assistant Bishop of Central Pennsylvania will spend Sunday next in Bloomsburg. On Saturday he will visit St. Gabriel's Church Sugarloaf, accompanied by Rev. W. C. On Saturday evening a reception will be held in the Parish House by the Young People's Guild to celebrate the completion of the tenth year of its existence. The adult members of the congregation, the members of the choir including all who sang on Easter, are invited to be present. The Bishop will be there.

RISHTON'S DRUG STORE.

Last Saturday night the new drug store of W. S. Rishton Ph. G., was opened to the public. It is a beautiful store and attracted much attention. The wood work is all of antique oak, and the floor is tiled. The soda fountain is one of the latest and best patterns. At the rear of the store is a partition made of jewelled panels. Behind this is the prescription department which is complete in every respect. The judgment of the public is that Mr. Rishton has exercised excellent taste in all the appointments of his store. He is a graduate of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, and fully competent to compound prescriptions. His stock is all new and fresh, and embraces everything to be found in a first class drug store. An arc light brilliantly illuminates the room.

Thomas Gorrey Jr., has been employed as clerk.

Vestry Meeting.

At a meeting of the Vestry of St. Paul's Church on Tuesday, 3rd inst., the following persons were elected lay deputies to the Diocesan Convention of the P. E. Mr. J. D. Jones is having a portion of his house re-plastered and painted

COURT CASES.

SURETY OF THE PEACE.

The case of the Commonwealth against Mrs. White was before the court on Tuesday morning. Mrs. Ditchey was the prosecutor and both parties live down near Centralia. Mrs. Ditchey testified that Mrs White called her vile names, and threatened to whip her little boy, and to strike her with a shovel, and that she was afraid of her. Mrs. White swore that the altercation arose from the fact that Mrs. Ditchy filled up the gutter in front of the former's house so that the water ran over the walk. The court said that the case was of so trivial a character that it ought not to have come to court. Each party was sentenced to pay half the costs, and enter into a recognizance to keep the peace for one year. Each woman had a small babe in her arms, and the mother of Mrs. Ditchey was called as a witness. At one point all three of the women talked at the same time, and caused some amusement.

DESERTION CASE.

Mrs. Geo. C. Yeager complained of her husband that he had deserted her and her two children, and had not furnished her any support since last June. He was an engineer on the P. & R road, and was living at Catawissa. He lost his place and went to West Virginia, and she learned that he was living with another woman. Henry Krouser testified that he was the land lord at Mahanoy Junction last year, and that a woman named Annie Martin boarded there and Yeager said that her board would be all right. He never paid anything for her, and the witness never saw anything wrong between them. Yeager brought her a dress once. Dr. Vastine testified that Mrs. Yeager was not a healthy woman, that she was subject to fits, and was otherwise diseased. Yeager went on the stand and denied most of the allegation of his wife, and declined to answer a number of questions, concerning the woman Martin. The court ordered Yeager to pay four dollars a week for the support of his wife and children.

NEW STEEL PLANT.

The Subers' Patent Roller Bearing Co., is now a fixed fact. The works will be located on the other side of the canal next to the Brass & Copper Company's works. The main building will be 40 by 140 feet with three wings, each 30 by 40 feet, and a pattern shop and office combined, 20 by 30 feet. They will be of brick, one story high, with patent steel roof. There has been subscribed in Bloomsburg the sum of $20.000 and the company will put in $75,000. At the outset about 65 hands will be employed, with the probability of increasing to 300 in the near future, mostly skilled workmen. This will greatly increase the demand for more houses, and owners of lots would do well to make a note of this. Ground will be broken for the shops in a short time, and the buildings are to be completed in 60 days from the time work is begun. The product of the work will be merchant steel, steel pulley blocks, roller bearings for all kinds of vehicles. F. P. Kendrick represents the company here, a very genial gentleman who will make the new enterprise a success.

Tennis is again revived. A permanent organization has been effected and a careful constitution and by-laws adopted. Prof. D H. Hartline is President, and that means that success is assured.

Already there are three splendid courts, and it is very probable that two additional courts will soon be in readiness.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trustees was held in the Faculy's office in the Normal School Monday May 2 at 2 o'clock. The principal business before the meeting was the election of four trustees, and the recomending of four others two of whom will be appointed by the State. On the part of the Board Messsrs. Schuyler, Clark, Billmeyer and Schoch were elected, each receiving six hundred and thirty-five votes, the entire number cast. Of those recommended to the State Department for appointment: I. S. It is rumored that the Sentinel's "Farmer John" wears billygoat whiskers, and that the only farming he has ever engaged in is the farming of law, politics and whatever official position a misguided public places him in. "Farmer John?" why he couldn't tell a winrow from a stone row.—Catawissa Item.

Oh, you forgot, he did some good farming in Kansas, he promised his "dear friend" a share of the products, but having failed to comply with his agreement his "dear friend" had him removed, and took the position himself, at the next election, and "Farmer John" returned to Columbia County.

PERSONAL.

Fred E Drinker is working in the Scranton Daily Times office.

Remington Rishel of the Nanicoke Sun, spent several days in town this week.

Miss Bessie Sterner has been very ill for some time, but is improving at present.

Mrs. Hand and Miss Laura Waller have gone to Chadron, Nebraska, to visit their brother Dr. G. P. Waller.

D. W. Robbins of Derrs, was in attendance at Court Monday. He paid his respects to this office.

Mrs. Arthur A. Clark of Harrisburg is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs, Isachar Evans.

Mrs. Maggie Sterner of Briarcreek who has been residing at Bloomsburg for some time, returned home on Tuesday.

Mrs. Emma Kirby of Mauch Chunk with her twin babes will visit her parents Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Kuhn, Saturday.

Nicholas Kindt of Greenwood was in town early Monday morning. He is an ardent democrat and would like to see Cleveland again nominated for President.

Eli M'Henry passed through town on Wednesday on his way home from Nanticoke, where he took 16 head of fine fat cattle fed on his farm in Benton, and sold them to A. Lape.

William Shultz of Jerseytown, one of our oldest subscribers, was in town last Saturday. For a man of his years he is quite hearty, though for some time past he has been suffering from rheumatism.

H. B. Low of Orangeville tells a good fish story. He says he was out one day last week and caught ten trout measuring from 10 to 14 inches. We have every reason to believe the report, because he is an expert fisherman.

Among the attendants at court on Tuesday were Judge F. L. Shuman, J. B. Knittle, Dr. C. C. Willits, Dr. Vastine of Catawissa, Isaiah Bower of Berwick, W. L. M'Henry of Stillwater, Hon. E. M. Tewksbury.

Mr. John Swartwout of Benton passed through town last Friday on his way home from Connecticut where he spent the past month. He was accompanied by Miss Kate Swartwout his daughter, who has been residing in Connecticut with an aunt for several years.

Mr. J. W. Perry, proprietor of the Elk Grove hotel was in town Monday on his way to New York City. He will return from the city, the last of the week and bring with him a supply of fishing tackle, with which to capture the "speckled beauties" in Elk Run.

A. B. Croop, one of Briarcreek's best men, was in town on Wednesday at court. He recently sold twelve chickens that were hatched just before Christmas, for $31.20. They weighed 52 pounds, and he got 60 cents a pound for them.

Elijah Bower of Swedesboro, New Jersey, came to Bloomsburg last Saturday to attend the funeral of Dr. A. L. Turner. When Dr. Turner had charge of the Sanitarium Mr. Bower conducted the boarding department. It is ten years since he and his family left here. Washington Devereaux, his son-in-law, who was the manager of the telephone office when first put in here, accompanied him.

THE COLUMBIAN made no mistake last week in its announcements of the funeral of Dr. Turner and the meeting of the Bible class at the Lutheran Church. Both notices were printed by request, and the mistake, if any, was somebody's else. After the paper was printed the arrangements for the funeral were changed, and in consequence thereof the Bible class was changed back to the Presbyterian church.

The brilliant (?) briefless legal light who furnishes a considerable portion of the chaff that goes into the hopper of the daily nearly had a spasm last Saturday in referring to those announcements. He grew exceeding funny and made use of that time-honored and gray headed joke about a weakly newspaper. We would suggest that so much space ought not to be wasted on us. The daily needs it for the announcement of who comes to town on the early train each morning. So far as "jealousy" is concerned, we will pay a reward to anybody who will discover anything about the Sentinel concern that is calculated to excite jealousy.

Mr. William Neal has greatly improved the appearance of his residence by removing the iron fence.

FAME, WEALTH, LIFE, DEATH.

What is fame?
'Tis the sun-gleam on the mountain,
Spreading brightly ere it flies;
'Tis the bubble on the fountain,
Rising lightly ere it dies,
Or, if here and there a hero
Be remembered through the years,
Yet to him the gain is zero;
Death hath stilled his hopes and fears,
Yet what dangers men will dare
If but only in the air
May be heard some eager mention of their name;
Though they hear it not themselves, 'tis much the same.

What is wealth?
'Tis a rainbow, still receding
As the panting fool pursues;
Or a toy that youth, unheeding,
Seeks the readiest way to lose;
But the wise man keeps due measure,
Neither out of breath nor base;
He but holds in trust his treasure
For the welfare of the race.
Yet what crimes some men will dare
But to gain their slender share,
In some profit, though with loss of name or health,
In some plunder, spent on vices, or by stealth.

What is life?
'Tis the earthly hour of trial
For a life that's but begun;
When the prize of self-denial
May be quickly lost or won;
'Tis the hour when love may burgeon
To an everlasting flower;
Or when lusts their victims urge on
To defy immortal power.
Yet how lightly men ignore
All the future holds in store,
Spending brief but golden moments all in strife;
Or in suicidal madness grasp the knife.

What is death?
Past its dark, mysterious portal
Human eye may never roam;
Yet the hope still springs immortal
That it leads the wanderer home.
Oh, the bliss that lies before us
When the secret shall be known,
And the vast angelic chorus
Sounds the hymn before the throne!
What is fame, or wealth, or life?
Past are praises, fortune, strife;
All but love that lives forever, cast beneath,
When the good and faithful servant takes the wreath.

ENDYMION.

BY LOUIS SPENCER DANIEL.

Dame O'be was an old witch, or gypsy, living on the outskirts of Rome. Save for the companionship of one, she lived alone in a dismal cave, loved by few, feared by many, for her dreaded magic charms.

This one, her companion, was the fairest of her sex, fairer by far than all the Roman maidens. Many stories were told in and about Rome regarding her parentage, but none knew the truth save old Dame O'be, and the secret was all she lived to keep.

Her name was Cleonice, and dark was her hair, dark as midnight her eyes; teeth, mouth, figure, more beautiful than ever Roman yet beheld. As blithe as a fairy, with a head full of all that was pure, with merry song she tripped the meadows through to where, in a boat that idly floated 'neath rocks and willows, the young shepherd boy, Endymion, lay asleep.

It was in a small valley, at the bottom of which a lake shone like silver in the light of the setting sun. All around it beautiful willows covered the sloping banks, and their long branches drooped over the water.

Gazing intently upon his face, she sat on a moss-covered rock somewhat near his boat, cast her eyes to heaven, drew her fingers across the lyre and put her brimming soul into music—music which could come from the gods alone.

Her song intermingled with Endymion's slumber and caused him to dream, and in the dream he spoke aloud in solemn vow his love for Cleonice.

Happier, tenfold happier, she sprang from the rock, leaned over the boat and kissed his brow, then took her way toward Dame O'be's cave. But ere she reached the brow of the hill, skipping, singing in her joy, she saw the emperor and his son riding fast toward her. As light as a fairy she sped before their horses, and calling aloud to Dame O'be as she neared the cave, fell upon the moss covered floor.

When the emperor rode up, out spoke Dame O'be, full and bold.

"Methinks the emperor and his fair son might find better sport than frightening the poor old woman's child!"

"Lying vagabond! She is no child of of yours. But you have taught her your tricks and she has bewitched my son."

The emperor was very angry; Dame O'be's face grew thoughtful and wicked, while close to her skirts clung Cleonice.

"Ha! ha! ha! So 'tis his heart! Ha! ha! ha!"

"Witch! Sorceress!" cried the enraged emperor. "Give her to my guards, and if she does not bring the color into my son's pale cheeks and cheer his sad heart, I will feed her to my lions."

The emperor was beside himself with rage but his young son was sick at heart, and pale of face.

Dame O'be gazed scornfully at the speaker then said:

"Off, base emperor! So 'tis you again! Remember forty buddings past, your heart waned, your face paled, for a love unborn for thee! Ha! ha! ha! I see! Thou hast not forgotten!"

"Wretch! Imposter! Give her to my soldiers, and I swear by the gods——"

"Enough! Take her, emperor, but remember, thou hast sworn by the gods! Let harm come to one hair of her head and woe to thee!"

The soldiers took the reluctant maiden and bore her away to a castle of marble by the side of the lake, and there the emperor's son swore his love for her on bended knee.

With downcast eyes and dark eye lashes—which seemed darker still, lying on her pale cheek—she told him that she loved another. Then the emperor and his son were overcome with wrath—more angry still when Cleonice's cheeks flushed, and her eyes flashed in scorn for both.

"Sorceress!" cried the emperor. "To-morrow at sunrise you wed my son!"

All that night Cleonice slept not, but lay with her dark head pillowed on her snow-white arms and sobbed for Endymion. "Oh, Endymion! Endymion!" But though the night breeze caught up her moaning, Endymion heard her not as he fed his sheep in the valley below.

Far in the distance she heard the lambs bleating, heard Endymion's voice, low and sweet: and now, standing at the open window she saw the new-born sun peeping from behind the hill, and shuddered at her approaching wedding.

Would she wed? For her life's sake would she leave fair Endymion?

Hark! She heard footsteps on the stone stairway. The emperor and his son approached. Quick into the window she sprang. Down, down, fathoms down, the beautiful, calm lake shone like silver in the early morn, polished by the rising sun. How peaceful it seemed!

Behind her, nearer, nearer, the footsteps came. Again, half breathless, she looked far out upon the lake—to see Endymion gliding swiftly over the waters. One quick thought—her last—'twas of Endymion. She crossed her arms on her breast; her face so fair, so beautiful, shone like an angel's. The door opened. The emperor and his son, seeing her intent, rushed madly at her—all too late!

They leaned from the window and gazed below to see the waters spread to receive her. Reckless in his anger and pain, the youth lost his balance and went to a watery grave.

With a curse on his lips the emperor madly rushed down the stairs, but at the castle door stood Dame O'be, with eyes fixed straight upon him.

"Rash emperor! Wretch! A curse be upon thy head! Thou hast killed Cleonice! Cleonice—daughter of the gods!"

Endymion, gliding o'er the lake's wide expanse, espied a floating figure clothed in white, and as he came nearer saw a mass of raven tresses. He arose, and seeing that which made him doubt his eyes, clasped his hands to his head and cried "Cleonice!" and fell as still as death in the boat's bottom.

The little craft came to shore and there stood Dame O'be.

"Poor Endymion!" she cried. She took a sleeping draught from her girdle, and saying, "Better that thou should'st never wake to grief," touched it to his lips.

There he lay all through the still and balmy night, and there he lay when the sun rose up from behind the hills.

A charm came over the beautiful valley which made the breeze more gentle and the lake more still than ever. The sheep came to the water's edge to see if Endymion was coming to feed them; but he stirred not in his deep and dreamless sleep. There he lay for days and nights, for weeks and months and years; and when the moon is ripest, villagers say they can see from the hill the lily white arm of Cleonice guiding Endymion's boat about the waters, while in the other hand, high over her head, she bears a torch to light her love across the lake.

Trees Near the House.

A reliable authority on matters relating to the aspect and surroundings of a house considers that no single tree should stand within some feet of it, no garden within several yards and no woodland, with its carpet of decaying leaves, within at least a half mile. This last estimate might well, it is thought, be reduced by one-half, and perhaps twelve to fifteen feet might be taken as the smallest distance which should intervene between tree and house. With this qualification the proximity of trees to a dwelling house is distinctly beneficial. To insure a pure and fragrant atmosphere, "you must," says a writer on the subject, "accept from nature those tall, green chimneys called trees, which imbibe and carry aloft into the air those hurtful gases which, if admitted to the lungs and brain, might disease the former and obstruct the delicate movements of the latter."

At various points in the country may be observed houses which, in spite of faulty situation, are yet generally healthy, chiefly because they are environed with trees which shelter them from the cold winds of winter and spring and in summer prevent that sudden and rapid evaporation which after heavy rains may generate disease. A most striking example of the use of trees in preserving and promoting health occurred some years ago. As the story goes, a man, along the extremity of whose garden ran a ditch, received no injury from its proximity, till, in an unfortunate hour, a thick row of elders which grew upon the brink was cut down. Almost immediately low fever attacked the family, and not only reduced them to a state of great weakness, but returned at short intervals, till they removed to another locality.

A Clever Tramp.

The trains on one of the railroads leading into Atlanta are notoriously slow, and they are on that account much frequented by tramps, who can readily catch on as they pull out of the stations. Not long ago, as a passenger train stopped at a water tank, a tramp, dusty and tired-looking, slipped off a truck and approached the conductor.

"Are you the conductor?" he asked.

"What were you doing under that car?" was all the information he received.

"Ridin'; you didn't suppose I was walkin', did you?"

"Well what do you want? I'm the conductor?"

"For the Lord's sake, mister, can you put more steam on, or put a brakeman on behind to push her, or do something to get along faster. I want to get to Atlanta before the exposition is over."

"Come off!" growled the conductor. "If you don't like it why don't you walk?"

"Because the president of the road is a friend of mine," and the tramp drew himself up in a dignified way, "and if I walk I'll beat the train there about eight hours, and that'll set competin' lines to makin' unkind remarks. I ain't goin' back on a friend in no sech lowdown manner as that, even if I didn't get to Atlanta in time to make New Year's calls; you hear me, cully conduc'?"

The conductor gave him a seat in the smoking car after that, and he went to sleep and forgot that there was any such place on the map as Atlanta.

Some men's pompous walk gives away the pride their tongues are vainly trying to conceal.

Lard as a Life-Saver

The school boy's composition asserted that pins had saved the lives of many people by their not having swallowed them; so lard has saved the lives of thousands by their having avoided food of which it forms a part. Hog's lard is responsible for much indigestion and dyspepsia, as any physician will testify, hence has been introduced to take the place of lard. There is no secret as to its composition. It consists only of highly refined Cotton Seed Oil, and Beef Suet. Clean, delicate, healthy and economical. Lard has had its day, and a greasy day it was. When next about to use lard,—Don't, but try Cottolene. At leading grocers.

OBITUARY.

WELLIVERSVILLE, Pa., April 26th–92.

This community was greatly surprised to learn of the death of Miss Anna Appleman who was a former associate and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. Her remains were interred at the Kitchen's Cemetery, on the 21st ult., where a large number of friends assembled to pay the last tribute of respect to the deceased.

'Tis with hearts of grief we say it,
But with kindness, sad and true,
That to witness the burial,
Of our friend, was deepest woe.

She is portals, now Celestial,
Smiles in that blest abode,
Though her smiles, when here among us,
Memory recalls with truest love.

We will miss her from our circle,
There will be a vacant place,
Still memory, sweet, with us will linger,
Which time and age can ne'er efface.

O'er her mound, the flowers still blooming,
We all know so soon will fade,
But the one beneath them sleeping,
Awaits the last call, from the grave.

In this world we ne'er shall meet her.
Nevermore her hand we'll clasp,
Though if guided by our Saviour,
We may gain that home at last.

A FRIEND.

But what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that makes it sell, and has given it such a firm and lasting hold upon the confidence of the people. The voluntary statements of thousands of people prove beyond question that this preparation possesses wonderful medicinal power.

Hood's Pills cure Constipation by restoring the peristaltic action of the alimentary canal. They are the best family cathartic.

A cold of unusual severity developed into a difficulty decidedly catarrhal in all its characteristics, threatening a return of my old malady, catarrh. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm completely eradicated every symptom of that painful and prevailing disorder.—E. W. Warner, Rochester, N. Y.

When I began using Ely's Cream Balm my catarrh was so bad I had headache the whole time and discharged a large amount of filthy matter. That has almost entirely disappeared and I have not had headache since.—J. H. Sommers, Stephney, Conn.

The Steam Power of the World.

It is said that four-fifths of the steam engines of the world have been constructed within the last 25 years. The total horse-power is estimated at 49,000,000, of which the United States has 7,500,000, Great Britain 7,000,000, Germany 4,500,000, France 3,000,000 and Austria 1,500,000.

"Does your mother know you're out," said a boy to his little brother. "Yes, she does," was the answer, "for one bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has knocked my cold into a cocked hat."

Some of the combinations of colors are very quaint and pleasing. Cronstadt green with pale-rose, ecru and blue, heliotrope and green and heliotrope and pink are among the odd mixtures.

SPECIALIST,

In the treatment of Chronic Diseases solicits Chronic, Obstinate cases who have obtained no relief elsewhere, and confines his practice to such cases only as are so clearly and fully developed as to make complete and positive Diagnosis without Questioning or allowing patients to make a statement of their condition. The Bradford Argus, published at Towanda by our old friend E. Ashman Parsons, is showing marked evidences of prosperity and energy. It will appear this week in an enlarged form, and printed on a new press. The Argus is one of the oldest papers of the northern tier, and is always bright and newsy. Success to it.

The Washington Post says that the New York Delegates selected by Senator Hill to go to the Democratic National Convention are going to Chicago with an anything-to-beat Cleveland gleam in their eyes. For this reason The Post insists that it is folly to suppose that these Hill delegates can ever be brought to see the propriety of turning in for Mr. Cleveland. If The Post will run its eye over the names of the New York delegation it will find that there are some eminent professors of practical politics in the list. When they hold out their Hill platter to the Convention, and are told that they must accept Cleveland or the choice of Cleveland's friends in some other part of the Union, they will do a heap of considering. Cleveland is not a bad man, and the New Yorkers know it: none better than Senator Hill.—Ex.

The New State Cashier.

GEORGE MORRISON TAYLOR APPOINTED BY TREASURER-ELECT MORRISON.

George Morrison Taylor, who has been selected to fill the post of cashier under the new State Treasurer, Mr. Morrison, is about twenty-nine years old. He is a Pennsylvanian, and was born in North Liberty, Mercer county. For many years he has been connected with the Treasury department of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, holding a very responsible position. He is a son of Dr. William Taylor, who was formerly treasurer of all the Pennsylvania Railroad company. Mr. Taylor has never held a political office. His practical experience with intricate financial accounts in the treasury department of the railroad company admirably equips him for the exciting duties of his new position While Mr. Taylor has always been a staunch Republican, he has never taken an active interest in politics.

Freer Trade, Lower Prices.

The chief Republican organ, in dilating upon the wonders of reciprocity, punches two big holes in the bulwarks of the protective system.

It shows that, as a result of the removal of the duties on American flour in Cuba and the West Indies, "not only has the price of food products been lowered, but the purchasing power of the islands' chief products has been increased." Reciprocity, it is said, "has cheapened food and reduced the cost of living," and increased trade and the consumption of grain food.

These boasts also hold these admissions:

1. That the tariff is a tax, and a tax paid by the consumer.

2. That removing this tax "cheapens the cost of living" and increases the ability of the untaxed people to buy more of the necessaries of life.

3. That freeing trade from tax shackles increases its volume and that the increased commerce is a benefit to both countries.

What the Republicans admit as to a few things the Democrats claim to be true of many.

When republicans boast of the good effect of untaxing foreigners Democrats ask: "What's the matter with untaxing our own people?"

Go on with your hole punching. The McKinley Chinese wall must come down.—World

DEMOCRATS FOR REVENUE ONLY

BRIARCREEK TOWNSHIP, May 2, 1892.

Editors Columbian: I have been watching for some time past the controversies going on in the different newspapers between our prominent democratic politicians, and can not see what good can be done by such newspaper articles. It looks to me like a petty wrangle between a few principals in which the great bulk of the party have no interest whatever. It seems like an effort of personal gain rather than party advantage. A maxim of one of our prominent generals was first divide the forces of the enemy then conquer them! In fact I have been informed that the editor of the Republican has been furnishing information to be used against some of our prominent democrats and this information is written up for publication in the columns of one of our democratic papers. Now what good is this to the democratic party? How much will these controversies help to increase our democratic majority? Now let me analyze the situation as we farmers see it. Mr. Krickbaum is posing as the friend of Governor Pattison and Ex-President Cleveland, but we fail to find a single person who ever heard of him make a speech for either of them. I have made inquiry of some of the committee and can not find that he ever helped to organize the party to get out the vote. Yet when Pattison was elected Governor in 1882, he was serving a second term as Prothonotary, which completed six consecutive years at a salary of about $2500 a year. When Pattison was again nominated for Governor in 1890, Mr. Krickbaum was a candidate for the Legislature for a second term at a salary of $1500, and stationery and postage, besides a free railroad pass; yet he could not aford any time to help organize to get out the vote.

Speaking of holding office, makes me recall a remarkable matter of history. During the last twenty-six years, Mr. Krickbaum has held some office, either elective or appointed for twenty-two years, and because he could not be elected for a third time as Prothonotary, he bolted the ticket, and tried to elect the nominee of the republican party and has ever since been heaping his abuse upon those who dared to vote against him, and if we mistake not, he is now a candidate for the Legislature for the third time, or for any other office he can get. The information, however, reaches me that Mr. Vanderslice is the author of these articles. What! Great Goodness!! can it be possible that he has came back from Kansas, to write to the honest farmers of this county, after his vote on the Pittsburg riot bill. We are slow to believe it, but when we look back at the election for Secretary of the Agricultural Society in January and find that nearly every employee of the Sentinel office had been made a voting member of the Society, and did vote for Vanderslice, it looks very much as if Mr. Krickbaum had taken him in as a silent partner. It might be that he is hired to write this abuse, because he failed to be elected Secretary, and he has no other employment. The members of the Agricultural Society were not so considerate, or they would not have defeated him; but then they probably had not forgotten that when Vanderslice was formerly Secretary he appropriated to his own use a large number of tickets and distributed them to his friends. I have noticed that Campbell, Snyder, and Buckingham have been accused of being enemies of Governor Pattison. I know that each of these gentlemen made speeches in the County during the campaign of 1890, and that the people have had sufficient confidence in them as democrats to elect them to serve office of trust or responsibility. Mr. Krickbaum has lately been chosen as delegate to the democratic national convention, and I cannot understand why he allows these attacks to be made upon prominent democrats. It looks to us as if it was a question of the spoils of the party—Democrats for revenue only.

We are only six months off from the election of President of the United States and instead of making dissensions in the party, we should all turn our attention to organization and help to put Pennsylvania in the democratic column. This year we vote on the Baker Ballot system which is not understood by the majority of voters. It would seem to us better politics, if the democratic papers would enlighten the voters on that subject and quit their personal wrangles.

TRUE DEMOCRAT.

OUT OF THE ASHES.

One of the most remarkable instances of energy and push was shown last week by the Philadelphia Times when with its office completely destroyed on Wednesday night, it appeared next morning in its usual form, as bright and newsy as ever. It is temporarily issued from the Record office.

Six lives were lost in the burning of the Central Theatre, all members of the company. Several more have died in hospitals since, from their injuries.

The two banks of Towanda carry over $1.400.000 on deposit. That town is the business center of Bradford county.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, May 2, 1892.

The democratic leaders are beginning to realize that the persistent absenteeism of a large number of democratic members of the House is jeopardizing the party's control of the next House. It is all very well to blame the republicans for refusing to vote to make a quorum so that the House can transact its business, but the voters will not forget that if every democratic member was in his seat the party could cast 67 votes more than a quorum of the House, and could transact business without the votes of a single republican, if they did not choose to vote. It is simply folly to expect that the republicans will neglect any opportunity to bring to the attention of the country the lack of a quorum, and in declining to vote they are but following the example set them by the democrats in the last Congress.

What then is to be done? That is just what is puzzling the gentlemen who are regarded as party leaders. All sorts of suggestions have been made, and many favor the plan of making a direct appeal to the democratic voters, asking them to bring pressure enough to bear upon their members to compel them to remain in their seats—in view of the general desire for renomination it would not require much pressure of this sort to control the average absentee. Whatever is to be done must be done quickly. Every day that there is not a quorum of democrats on the floor of the House will add to the difficulty of electing a democratic majority of the next House, and to lose the House would be a dire misfortune that even the election of the President will not fully compensate the party for. The trouble seems to be that the democratic majority is so large that some of the members think that their presence is not necessary. That is a mistake that must be brought home to them.

The admissions of Special Examiner Greenwalt of the Pension Bureau are of themselves sufficient cause for the summary dismissal of Commissioner Raum. Greenwalt admitted under the cross examination of Representative Enloe that under orders from Raum he has gone to Indiana, and given a man $25 to send to Representative Cooper, to be paid to Mr. Cooper's private secretary, for information which had been furnished concerning pension claims, in the hope of proving Mr. Cooper guilty of allowing his secretary to accept money for the information which had been obtained by the use of his name and official privileges at the Pension Bureau. Nice sort of business for the head of one of the most important bureaux of the Government to be engaged in, wasn't it?

Ex-United States Treasurer Huston, of Indiana, who left Washington last year swearing vengeance on Harrison because of slights to himself or family, must have been placated. He is now in Washington, and this is the way he talks: "There is no other expectation out our way than that President Harrison will be renominated. There never was any organized opposition to him in Indiana."

"Teddy" Roosevelt is on the war path for Mr. Wanamaker, and he has announced his intention to figuratively scalp the Postmaster General for the delectation of the House committee on Reform in the Civil Service, which is engaged in making an investigation of the charges Roosevelt made against 21 employees of the Baltimore Post Office, last year. Mr. Wanamaker in his testimony before the committee presented the report of the Post Office inspectors, white-washing the aforesaid employes, and intimated that Mr. Roosevelt has been green enough to allow himself to be imposed on when he made his investigation. This got "Teddy's" fighting blood up, and he has sworn revenge and asked for a hearing before the committee. Some lively testimony is expected from him, as it is believed that he has a good case. Besides, it is known that he has no love for Mr. Wanamaker, whom he called a careless handler of the truth during the investigation concerning the notorious Shidy, of Milwaukee. It is also said that Mr. Wanamaker has in reserve a broadside of hot shot which he proposes pouring into "Teddy," if it becomes necessary for him to defend himself. Although Mr. Wanamaker is a Sunday School teacher, and probably knows nothing about the great American game of poker, there are people who say that this is thrown out as a "bluff" to make Roosevelt haul in his horns. It makes little difference either way. Let 'em fight, and may the best man win; and may the public find out some facts about how the civil service reform law is administered.

Russell Harrison had $5000 worth of the stock of the Yellowstone Park Association given to him. So said Mr. E. C. Waters, of Montana, once manager of the company, to the House committee on Public Lands, which is investigating the Yellowstone Park leases. Just why this stock was given to Russell the witness did not tell, but it was unnecessary. It was simply an exchange; stock for influence.

Nearly everyone needs a good spring medicine, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is undoubtedly the best. Try it this season.

THE BALLOT LAW SUSTAINED.

THE PROHIBITIONIST PLEA DECLARED PLAUSIBLE, BUT UNSOUND.

The constitutionality of the Baker ballot law was affirmed by the Supreme Court's decision affirming decisions of the Common Pleas Courts of Philadelphia, Lebanon and Lackawana counties to that effect. The chief ground of complaint against the new law was that, under its working the prohibition nominations, will not be printed on the official ballot, the party not having polled three per cent. of the total vote last fall, it being alleged that it thus abridges the freedom of voting.

Chief Justice Paxson in his opinion says:

"This contention is plausible, but unsound. The act does not deny to any voter the exercise of the elective franchise because he happens to be a member of a party which at the last general election polled less than three per cent. of the entire vote cast. The provision referred to is but a regulation, and we think a reasonable one, in regard to the printing of tickets. The use of official ballots renders it absolutely necessary to make some regulations in regard to nominations in order to ascertain what names shall be printed on the ballot. The right to vote can only be exercised by the individual voter. The right to nominate, flowing necessarily from the right to vote, can only be exercised by a number of voters acting together. Three persons may claim to be a political party, just as the three tailors of Tooley street assumed to be 'The people of England.' It follows, if an official ballot is to be used, nominations must be regulated in some way, otherwise the scheme would be impracticable, and the official ballot become the size of a blanket. While so regulating it, the act carefully preserves the right of every citizen to vote for any candidate whose name is not on the official ballot, and this is done in a manner which does not impose any unnecessary inconvenience upon the voter. It was urged, however, that when an elector desires to vote for a candidate whose name is not on the official ballot, he can only do so by writing the name of the candidate upon the ballot, and that this provision, in view of the limited time allowed the elector for this purpose, renders a compliance with it practically impossible and in many cases would be a denial of the franchise.

"We cannot say, as a matter of law, that it would be practically impossible to insert the name by writing it. The actual enforcement of the act will test this as well as many other matters connected with its operation. It is at least probable that when tested by experience it will be found to contain many features that need revision and amendment. This can be safely left to the Legislature, and is no reason why we should declare the act unconstitutional. Aside from this, we see nothing in it to prevent the elector from inserting the name of his candidate by the use of a sticker, as is now practiced"

We are informed that W. L. Eyerly, an employee of the Sentinel office has told lately that Mr. Krickbaum will not be a candidate for the Legislature this year. If Mr. Krickbaum is not a candidate why does he not announce it in his newspaper?

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus overcoming the local symptoms removes the sympathetic effects of the disease, banishes the headache, and refreshes the tired mind.

Distress After Eating

Sick Headache

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness, or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, which is that of a painter, and from being more or less shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla—took three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced." The Latest Swindle

The latest swindle is carried on by the means of a double fountain pen, one end of which is filled with good substantial ink, the other with ink that fades away in a day or two. The sharper writes the agreement, contract or whatever way he may have chosen with ink that will not last. In a few days he has a slip of paper with nothing but a signature over which he can write a note and easily turn it into cash. Look out for the fountain pen swindler, for he is dangerous.

W. S. Rishton, a graduate of the Phila. College of Pharmacy, has opened an elegant new store in Ent's building one door below the Farmers National Bank where he will be pleased to see any who may need anything in his line.

He carries the largest, finest and best line of toilet preparations, perfumes, and sundries in the town.

His prescription department is stocked with a complete line of pure drugs and chemicals. Every prescription which goes out of his store is guaranteed to be composed of perfectly pure ingradients and exactly as specified on the Physician's prescription.

Can you Cook a Trout.

To fry a trout well is a great art, and rarely understood. The fat, be it butter olive oil or lard, should be sweet and burning hot. As soon as browned, the fish should be lifted out and the fat allowed to drain off. A thin slice of salt pork or bacon will go well with the fish, but too much bacon may give them a smoky flavor. Small trout from six to eight inches long are cooked in this manner. Any sized fish may be roasted in the ashes, and they are excellent in that way, but trout from a fourth to three-fourths of a pound give the best results. But, above all, give us a good big trout, boiled properly, with a little white-wine vinegar in the water, and served hot with either caper or egg sauce and a glass or two of white caper wine to wash them down, says Forest and Stream.

The New D. L. & W. Coal Field.

That the D. L. & W. is ready to tap their great Hanover coal basin is evidenced by the removal of Thomas H. Carey from the superintendency of the Woodward mines and his transfer to Hanover. Mr. Carey is recognized as being the most successful superintendent of the company, and he is employed only in developing new coal properties. He took charge at the Woodward about six years ago, and under his direction the two shafts were sunk, the mines opened, and the breaker and other buildings erected. Mr. Carey has spent nearly a million dollars for the company since he was first sent to Kingston from Scranton, but his new work is of even greater importance than that which he has done. The Hanover coal field of the D., L. & W. is the largest and most important remaining in the Wyoming Valley, and it is estimated to be worth from twenty to fifty millions of dollars.— W. B. Times.

Talking of patent medicines—you know the old prejudice. And the doctors— some of them are between you and us. They would like you to think that what's cured thousands won't cure you. You'd believe in patent medicines if they didn't profess to cure everything—and so, between the experiments of doctors, and the experiments of patent medicines that are sold only because there's money in the "stuff," you loose faith in everything.

And, you can't always tell the prescription that cures by what you read in the papers. So, perhaps, there's no better way to sell a remedy, than to tell the truth about it, and take the risk of its doing just what it professes to do.

That's what the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., does with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

If they don't do what their makers say they'll do—you get your money back

OFFERED FOR THE ARREST OF HARRIS AND CHARLEY WHO KILLED JACOB MARKS.

The murderers of Jacob Marks in Sullivan county, last month, are being diligently tracked by detectives, and no stone will be left unturned to apprehend them. Harris and Charley, for by this title they operated as a firm, lost no time in getting back to New York, and from that point officers are now tracking them.

Harris is a man not over 30 years of age, five feet seven inches in height, dark complexion, dark hair, brown eyes, and weighs about 150 pounds; he wears a small moustache, and is a good talker. Charley has reddish hair, light complexion, rather heavy sandy moustache, is a little taller than his companion in crime, although about the same weight and age. Both were peddlers and natives of Germany, and speak somewhat broken English.

A reward of $500 has been offered for their capture—$150 of that sum being offered by the commissioners of Sullivan county, $100 by the sheriff of that county, and $250 by the brothers of their victim.

It is thought by some people here that the New York officers already have a clue, and that the arrest of the men is only a question of time.

The plague of breaking lamp-chimneys is abroad in the land. There are two sorts of chimneys; brittle and tough. Ninety-nine in a hundred are brittle. The worst are imported from Germany. The best are Macbeth's "Pearl-top" & "Pearl-glass."

Two sorts as to workmanship; fine and coarse. The fine are Macbeth's "Pearl-top" and "Pearl-glass." The coarse are rough and out of proportion; misfits and misshapen; they do not make a good draft; they smoke.

Two sorts as to glass; transparent and gray. "Pearl-top" and "Pearl-glass" are clear, fine and tough—not tough against accident—tough against heat.

Call for "Pearl-top" or "Pearl-glass" chimneys.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

AN ODD KIND OF CLUB.

IT RESEMBLES A FULL FLEDGED TELEGRAPH COMPANY.

An Amateur Organization, the Members of Which Have Their Houses Connected by Wires, So That They May Communicate with Each Other by Telegraph.

One of the most novel or unique organizations in Brooklyn is one that has recently gained a new lease of life through the infusion of new and vigorous blood and by a thorough reorganization. It is called the Phenix Morse Telegraph club, and is perhaps the only one of its kind in the United States. The old organization was formed in 1879 and started in life under the name of the Phenix club. It was inaugurated by a number of young people, some of whom were engaged in occupation as telegraphers, and others of different vocations, who took pleasure in studying the mysterious language of dots and dashes. A private telegraph line was established and connected with the residences of the members. A busy wire it was too. The hum of conversation, if it can be termed such, was constant throughout the evening. Stories were passed over the electrical current, jests and jokes bandied, chess and checkers played by individuals who liked this sort of recreation, and in fact as good a time was usually passed as if the members were brought in contact with each other by person in one room.

Jokes of an innocent character were also carried on over the circuit, which had the advantage in so far as to allow the perpetrator to remain unknown or making it unnecessary to flee from the wrath of the person upon whom it was inflicted. Quite a number of these are stock property among the old members, who relate them to friends with as much gusto and enjoyment as if they had occurred only yesterday. One of these is to the effect that two members after practicing with another in the early evening, during which the sender transmitted the Morse characters as fast as he could, or as telegraphers would say "rushed" the receiver, notwithstanding the protests of this unfortunate disciple of America's noted inventor. The latter promised himself that a speedy revenge would follow, and sought to find some means whereby he could make the "rusher" as uncomfortable as he had been previously.

The practicing finally came to an end, and the receiver waited until an unearthly hour of the morning, when he supposed his victim had gone to bed and when the click of a sounder would strike the gloom and quiet with the distinctness of a blow from a trip hammer. At about 3 o'clock in the morning he went to the instrument and began to call his victim in a manner which would indicate that a fire had perhaps broken out or that the transmitter had serious need of aid in some dire calamity. He called in this furious style until he had awakened the sleeper, who jumped up out of bed and went to the instrument, expecting to hear that something dreadful had happened. He answered the call quakingly. His indignation can be imagined when the query came slowly and distinctly:

"Will you please tell me the time; my clock has run down."

His answer is not recorded, but it is safe to assume that the immediate vicinity became as warm as a hot box of an overheated wheel.

The organization went on in the even tenor of its way until two or three years ago, when it began to languish, partly on account of a defection of members who moved away from the city or because the remaining persons would not shoulder in the proper or necessary manner the worry and expense of conducting such and organization. Then came another club which was purely social in its character and which was also called the Phenix club. It may have been that the similarity of names caused a bond of friendship to be established or that some of the members of this body were capable of handling a key and working the electrical current. However this may be, the two organizations were amalgamated and a new order of affairs brought about thereby. The name was changed to the present one, and under which it started out with bright and prosperous auspices.

A flat, corner of Marcy avenue and Fulton street, has been made the headquarters of the club, and which may be termed the main office of this amateur telegraph company. Here are located the battery room, which furnishes the powerful fluid by which the wire is worked, and another, which is called the operating room, in which are placed four sets of instruments and a double practicing outfit. A galvonometer, whereby the wire is measured, so that the whereabouts of any trouble on the line can be detected, is also included in this space. Meetings and social gatherings are held in a larger room running off from this one. Eighty cells of battery work the circuit, which covers a distance of nearly eighteen miles in this city, mainly in the upper residence section.

The old "string" was overhauled by an experienced lineman recently and put in sufficiently substantial shape in order to enable it to more readily resist the wear and tear of a line in a large and busy city. The circuit is placed along the housetops on the route, and trouble of any kind or, as an operator would say, "bugs" are rarely met with or experienced. Twenty-three so called "offices" are on the circuit, all of which have their calls in the same manner as do the stations of a telegraph company.

Among the present members of the club are practical telegraphers of skill and records for sending and receiving. Considerable rivalry exists between them, and it is proposed at some future time to have a tournament for fast transmitting and also for skill and ability in receiving the Morse characters. Classes will be established in order to give every one a chance. One of the fastest senders in the country is the secretary of the organization, Mr. Frank L. Catlin.—Brooklyn Eagle.

HEARING A SHELL SCREAM.

A Hideous Sound That Tries the Nerves of the New Soldier.

The talk turned upon personal courage in a conversation I had the other day with an aid-de-camp of General Alexander Hays. The veteran, who had the name of being the most daring aid on Hays' staff, said: "You ask me how I felt when I first smelled powder, so to speak. Well, after the lapse of all these years I'm almost ashamed to tell you. I was panic stricken, scared out of my senses, my courage oozed out of me in an instant, and a small boy could have captured me without trouble. This awful experience came after I had been about a year in the army. The regiment of infantry in which I was was preparing to go into camp. We were a few miles outside of Yorktown, which was in the possession of the Confederates, but none of us, not even our officers, realized the proximity of the enemy. There were some cattle with the army, and some how or other some of my comrades and I were part of the crowd that drove the beeves to the place where they were to be slaughtered.

"We formed a circle, a sort of bull ring, and fell to skylarking and firing our pistols at the cattle as they ran hither and thither. It was all laughter and shouting. Suddenly, without the slightest warning, a sound that we had never heard before rose above the clamor. It was a sort of whirring howl, lasting a few seconds only, but long enough to strike terror into our hearts. The men who had been as gay and noisy as schoolboys a minute before were dumb. I don't remember how they behaved. My own affairs kept me busy. I felt as if my boots were nailed to the ground. They wouldn't move, neither would my legs—in fact I had lost control of my body. I was perfectly limp and my knees sagged out.

"That was the first strange sound, as of some hideous, deadly bird flying overhead. I hardly realized, mind you, that the enemy was shelling us. All I knew for sure was that somehow my life, which I had enjoyed so much a minute before, was in danger. I wanted to run, but my legs wouldn't obey me. Two shells passed over me before I could shake off the paralysis. Then I ran as I never ran before or since, with a professional sprinter's speed, to the shelter of the woods from which our regiment had only just emerged. A second terror seized me as I reached the first scattering trees. I had selected one, a big fellow, as my refuge, and when I reached it three other men who were crouched behind it pushed me violently away, saying there wasn't room for more. Shells were still in the air, and with terror I pursued my flight. When at last I fell exhausted upon the ground beyond the range of the enemy's artillery, I almost lost consciousness for awhile.

"Nobody was killed by those shells, but the 'Rebs' must have laughed to see us run, and laughed louder yet when our cattle ran into their lines as they did. I felt more or less uncomfortable always in going into battle afterward, but never again lost my nerve as I did at my fire baptism before Yorktown."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Why We Have Leap Years.

Why is it that there have to be leap years—that all our years are not of the same length? It arises from the fact that the year does not consist of an exact number of days. The length of the day and that of the year are the measures of the motions of the earth. The globe we live on moves in two ways. It turns itself around like a spinning top, and at the same time it goes steadily forward like a bullet shot from a gun. It turns itself once completely around in twenty-four of our hours, as shown by the clock; this amount of time we call a day. Its forward or onward motion carries it around the sun in a path that is nearly a circle; the time it takes to go completely around we call a year. The first motion gives us day and night following each other in turn (the word "day" here having now a different meaning—namely, not twenty-four hours, but the time of daylight.

The second motion gives us days (that is, periods of daylight) growing gradually longer and then gradually shorter, one end of the earth turning more toward the sun for half the time and the other end for the other half; and this brings us summer and winter and the seasons. Now the length of the year is found to be nearly 365¼ times the length of the day of twenty-four hours; that is, the year is 365 days long and nearly six hours more. It is these six hours that give us our leap years, and it is in the "nearly" that we find the reason for 1900 not being one of their number.—Rev. George McArthur in St. Nicholas.

Cripples at the Capital.

Strangers in the capital express much surprise at the number of cripples to be seen here, and offer various explanations of the sight. The majority of maimed citizens are office holders, who were crippled during the late war. The form in which they are mostly injured is the loss of an arm, oftener the left one, as observation shows. Many have parted with a leg, and the suppliers of substitutes in willow, cork or rubber in Washington aver that this is one of the best markets in the country for their profession. Besides these injuries received through violence, there are scores of people in the government service who are afflicted with natural deformities. They are to be found particularly in the treasury department.—Kate Field's Washington.

A Mirror in Your Glove.

Without merely desiring to remind herself of her good looks a woman has often need of as much looking glass as she can see her face in.

In the street, at a ball, at a theater, in the shops, all sorts of little disarrangements may occur, and to set them right with a mirror is an absolute necessity. The very handiest form of portable mirrors is the new "mirror glove." A little flap is buttoned up into the palm of one glove. When it is let down a small circular mirror is disclosed.—New York Journal.

The Way Women Do.

"If men were as economical in their social relations as women are we would not be such a nation of spendthrifts," said T. B. Rose, of Minneapolis. "I was impressed with the force of this idea today by an observation begun in a cable car and pursued through a dry goods establishment and a restaurant. I saw two ladies chatting together intimately on a car, and when the conductor approached them to collect the fares one of them had no change. The other offered to pay for her companion's ride, but the latter wouldn't submit to the proposition. Instead she borrowed a nickel from her friend, remarking as she did so that she would break a bill as soon as she got down town and repay her. My curiosity was excited to see if women really dealt that way with one another, so I followed the two after they got off the car. They first entered a dry goods store, where the borrower made a small purchase, and as soon as she got her change she handed her friend five cents, which was received without the slightest protest.

"Then they went into a restaurant to get lunch. Each gave separate orders and the bill of each amounted to thirty cents. They marched up to the cashier and each paid her own bill. Now, these are small transactions, but they are indicative of the difference in the characters of men and women. Had the objects of my observations been men instead of women, the man who offered to borrow a nickel for car fare would have insulted the other, and one of them would have ordered that dinner for both and paid the bill, which, I may as well say, would have amounted to dollars instead of cents."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The True Artist.

Henry Norman gives the following instance of modest self estimate in the case of a man who is one of the most skillful and original artificers in the world, and whose works are everywhere admired:

This ivory carver sat in his little room, open to his little garden, chiseling upon a magnificent tusk, from which was just emerging a very graceful female figure. The ivory he held between his knees, and the tools were spread out at his side.

"How long will this take you?" I asked.

"About four months," he replied.

"And what is the proportion between the value of the material and the value of the labor in such a work as this when completed?"

"I paid $140 for this piece of ivory," said he, and four months' work, at $50 a month, is $200."

And this man was estimating his work at less than forty American dollars a month! His was the true artist's temperament, for he was willing to accept only what would supply him with the necessaries of life, depending for his actual reward on the joy of seeking to do a perfect work.

"Are you not very sorry sometimes,' asked I, "to part with one of these works, that have been companions and a part of your life for so long?"

He looked up for a minute at a great white lily nodding above him in the garden, and then gently shook his head.

"No," he said. "I expect the next to be more beautiful still."

A Suggestion About Dinners.

The next time you give a dinner give a good one. Do not feel that because you can afford it your dinner must consist of complex, mysterious, rich, indigestible dishes. No one wants them. All men hate them. When a man goes to a restaurant he never orders such a medley for himself. He never wishes them on his own table. Few women care for them, and not one person in fifty can digest them with comfort. Although such dinners are very common in New York, they are not given because we desire or respect them, but because we are a rich and vulgar people without the ability to realize our vulgarity.

There are many people in this city, and happily the class is growing, who have the good taste and courage to offer a simpler dinner to their guests. Such dinners can be as long and as dainty as the most fastidious may desire, and they are infinitely more satisfying. Try to bear in mind that a dinner consisting of complex and mysterious dishes is only a development of American vulgarity. When a woman gives such a dinner you are correct in supposing that either her own taste is vitiated and false or that she does it because she thinks it "the proper thing." In either case it indicates the presence of more money than intelligence.—Life.

They Agreed Then and After.

A Baptist minister took charge of a parish near Boston where he knew that one man was decidedly opposed to his pastorate. Soon after his arrival the Rev. Mr. X. called upon Mr. A.

"Brother," said he, "I hear that you think I am the wrong man to be the pastor of this church."

"Well, to be frank," replied Mr. A., "I do think that another would have filled the place better."

"Now that is just what I think," said the pastor. "But as long as we hold this opinion in opposition to the majority of the parishioners, let's try to be unselfish and make the best of it."

After that call Mr. X. never had a firmer friend nor more faithful champion than Mr. A.—Boston Herald.

Why Petrarch Is Remembered.

Petrarch thought it a disgrace that his verses should be sung in the streets, and he regretted that he had written anything in the vulgar tongue. No one now reads his Latin poetry, but every reader of Italian is charmed with the poems that attracted and suited the popular taste, which is made kin by a touch of nature, whether from the lyre or the pen.—Notes and Queries.

CONDOR LASSOING.

THE LEADING SPORT ON THE CHILIAN PLAINS.

This King of the Feathered Race Levied Constant Tribute on the Herds of Cattle That Pastured Between the Andes and the Pacific's Surf.

Chasing the condor with the lasso was the leading sport on the Chilian plains when I was in the country years ago, but I am told that this great bird has become so wary that the sport is now almost unknown. Twenty-five years ago the condor had developed no evidence of cunning that I ever heard of. There was then, as there is now, I believe, a government bounty of five dollars a head paid for the killing of the condor, both in Chili and Peru.

The condor, unlike many other members of the vulture family, doesn't wait for something or somebody to die in order that he may have his dinner, but if he doesn't find a ready-made carcass convenient on the plain when he is hungry, he proceeds at once to provide that carcass himself. At least, that used to be his habit, and I presume he hasn't changed any in that respect, providing the material for carcasses is as plenty now as it was then.

The condor was the greatest enemy the stockraisers in that part of South America had to contend with, and it was his persistent and destructive raids on grazing cattle that made him an outlaw, with a price on his head, to be relentlessly hunted even among the crags and cloud-capped peaks where he made his home.

When a day's old-time sport at condor-lassoing was to be had the carcass of a steer, a dog or a horse was carried out on the plain. Strong stakes were driven into the ground, five or six inches apart, about the carcass, until a roofless enclosure six or seven feet high and twenty feet square, with a gate at one side was made. Long before the work of making this enclosure could be finished condors would be seen floating down from the clouds, far above which they have their haunts. As long as the workmen were busy at the enclosure the birds would sail high overhead. The instant the coast was clear, down the great vulture would drop, and in a few seconds he would be tearing at the dead body in the enclosure.

It is no uncommon thing for a mature condor to have a twelve-foot spread of wing, and I have known them to measure fifteen feet from tip to tip of wing. Their bodies are heavy, and on the ground the bird is clumsy. It can not rise for flight without running rapidly for a long distance, to give it the necessary momentum, especially if it is gorged with food, which it never fails to be if any food can be obtained. As a consequence, when a condor alighted in one of those enclosures, he was as much of a prisoner as if he were chained down to the ground, and the sportsman kept him there to serve his pleasure.

When he wanted to ride after a condor the owner of the pen, generally with a friend or two similarly equipped, mounted a fleet horse, fastened his lariat to the saddle, and rode to the enclosure. An attendant opened the gate of the prison and let out a condor for each rider. When the condors found themselves at liberty, they at once started at the top of their speed on the long run that would enable them to take wing. After they had run probably one quarter of the distance the huntsmen put spurs to their horses and dashed after the birds.

As the condors rose from the ground with great wings spread, the lassoes were thrown. An expert handler of the lariat would send his rope over the condor's head, and so manage it that it was slipped down until it touched the shoulders of the wings before it would tighten on the bird.

The condor was then a prisoner, but able to use his powerful pinions, breathe freely, and lead the horseman a wild chase across the plain, turning in all directions in his frantic flight, but unable to rise higher than the length of the lasso. When the rider tired of the sport he would turn his horse about and lead the chase himself, forcing the unwilling bird along until it tumbled spent to the ground and was dragged to death at the horse's heels.

I never could understand why a condor, captive like that, did not turn on both man and horse and attack them as he would a steer, but I never saw one do so.

I never tried the sport but once. Once was enough for me. I lassoed my bird, a tremendous fellow, but being a green hand at the business, tightened the rope on his windpipe. That shut off his breath at once, and after darting about in the air in a crazy sort of way for a minute or so, he rose straight up as far as the rope would let him, gave a gasp like the escape valve of a locomotive, and shot down upon me as straight as a plumb bob.

When the heavy body of the condor struck me I was unhorsed in a flash. One foot remained in the stirrup. My horse, naturally frightened, started off like mad, dragging me along. The condor, which was dead as a stone and smelt like a breeze off Barren Island, lay on top of me. Fortunately the ground was soft, and one of my fellow-huntsmen was manœuvring with a condor he had roped some distance ahead of me. I wasn't much hurt, but I let others do all the condor-lassoing after that.

Chinese Etiquette 2,000 Years Ago.

How Chinese women were expected to behave themselves 2,000 years ago is set forth in a pleasing little Chinese work of 313 chapters. In the presence of her parents or parents-in-law a woman might not sneeze or cough, neither stretch, yawn nor loll about when tired. She was required to wear a happy face and to show a mild, pleasant deportment in serving them, in order to soothe them. The wife of a certain Liu Kung-tseh comes in for a large share of praise simply because "for three years after her marriage nobody had ever seen her smile."

Sent to Prison for Life.

ANNIE WALDEN, WHO MURDERED HER HUSBAND, RECEIVES THE FULL PENALTY.

Annie Walden, who shot and killed her husband, was last Friday sentenced to prison for life in New York. In reply to the Judge's question if she had anything to say why sentence should not be passed she said. "Yes, sir; I have something to say. I have not had a proper trial at all. I think I have been grossly treated. My witnesses were not subpœnaed, and my case has not been represented as it should have been at any stage. Mrs. Green and some of the other witnesses perjured themselves in nearly everything they said about me. I certainly think I am entitled to a new trial.

Judge Ingraham said he thought the jury had dealt very mercifully with her considering the evidence, and declined to consider a motion for a new trial.

To Cure a Horse of Balking.

A RECIPE GIVEN AS INFALLIBLE BY A MOUNTED POLICEMAN.

An officer of the police detail said recently: "When I was a mounted policeman I learned of a most humane and kind method of curing a balky horse. It not only never fails, but it does not give the slightest pain to the animal. When the horse refuses to go take the front foot at the fetlock and bend the leg at the knee joint. Hold it thus for three minutes, and let it down and the horse will go.

"The only way in which I can account for this effective mastery of the horse is, that he can think of only one thing at a time, and having made up his mind not to go, my theory is that the bending of the leg takes his mind from the original thought. There have been some barbarously cruel methods resorted to to make a balky horse go its way, such as filling the mouth with sand, severely beating the horse or, as in one recent case, cutting out his tongue. The human societies would have their hands full to care for all these cruelties to animals. If they only knew, the owners of horses would adopt my treatment, and there would be no trouble with the erst-while troublesome balky horses." Animal Friends.

THE HAIR

When not properly cared for, loses its lustre, becomes crisp, harsh, and dry, and falls out freely with every combing. To prevent this, the best and most popular dressing in the market is Ayer's Hair Vigor. It removes dandruff, heals troublesome humors of the scalp, restores faded and gray hair to its original color, and imparts to it a silky texture and a lasting fragrance. By using this preparation, the poorest head of hair soon and beautiful. All who have once tried Ayer's Hair Vigor, want no other dressing. Galbraith & Starks, Druggists, Sharon Grove, Ky., write: "We believe Ayer's Hair Vigor to be the best preparation of the kind in the market, and sell more of it than of all others. No drug store is complete without a supply of it."

Becomes Luxuriant

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor with great benefit and know several other persons, between 40 and 50 years of age, who have experienced similar good results from the use of this preparation. It restores gray hair to its original color, promotes a new growth, gives lustre to the hair, and cleanses the scalp of dandruff." — Bernardo Ochoa, Madrid, Spain.

After Using

A number of other preparations without any satisfactory result, I find that Ayer's Hair Vigor is causing my hair to grow."—A. J. Osment, General Merchant, Indian Head, N. W. T.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is the only preparation I could ever find to remove dandruff, cure itching humors, and prevent loss of hair. I can confidently recommend it."—J. C. Butler, Spencer, Mass.

"My wife believes that the money spent for Ayer's Hair Vigor was the best investment she ever made, it has given her so much satisfaction."—James A. Adams, St. Augustine, Texas.

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

ATLANTIC CITY.

A BOOMING SEASON AHEAD FOR THE GREAT RESORT AND THE READING'S ROYAL ROUTE.

The popularity of Atlantic City long since reached National proportions, and it continues to grow from year to year. The approaching season promises to be the greatest ever known at this the greatest of all seaside resorts. The Reading Railroad, whose superbly magnificent line between Philadelphia and Atlantic City has become famous throughout the country as the "Royal Route to the Sea," will continue to be the principal and favorite means of getting to and from the City by the Sea. The Reading's superiority in equipment is generally conceded. Its chief advantage consists in the fact that it has the only double track line of railroad to Atlantic City. The importance of this cannot be overestimated. Not only does it insure the absolute safety of passengers, but it admits of quicker and more reliable transit. The Reading line is also several miles shorter than any other road to Atlantic City, and it runs almost as straight as the crow flies. The great "Seventy-five Minute Flyers" are the most talked of trains in America. For beauty, elegance and speed they are literally beyond rivalry and those of our readers who visit Atlantic City should not fail to experience the delight of a ride on one of these matchless trains. The summer schedule will comprise a large number of fast express trains that has ever heretofore been run on any line. Trains will start at such frequent intervals that one can scarcely fail to catch a "Flyer" at whatever time he may desire to go. The spring time table now in effect shows week day trains leaving Philadelphia at 8:00 and 9:00 a. m., 2:00, 4:00 and 5:00 p. m. Sunday morning express trains leave at 8:00, 9:00 and 10:00 a. m. Returning trains start from Atlantic City at 7:30 and 9:00 a. m., 4:00 and 5:30 p. m. week days, 4:00 5:45 and 9:00 p. m. Sundays. The "Royal Route's" Philadelphia stations are at Chestnut and South street wharves, and all Reading Railroad Ticket Offices have through tickets and baggage checks for Atlantic City.
